ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 6, 2018 /PRNewswire/ -- Dr. Debra Reilly, a renowned plastic surgeon has spent years treating patients with damaged or burned skin. Twenty years ago, she started using a proprietary compound to treat her patients, a refined and purified oat beta glucan that reduced the healing time of her patients' traumatized skin from weeks to days. That same proprietary technology, now known as Macro B Complex®, is available to consumers everywhere via a luxury, medical grade skin care company called BREVENA® Laboratories.

BREVENA's line of skin care products focus on maintaining critical moisture levels in the skin, while reducing the damage that intrinsic aging, lifestyle and environmental elements cause. BREVENA's Macro B Complex has been clinically proven to improve skin texture, firmness, moisture and crow's feet.

"As a physician, I look for products that not only moisturize, but aid in my skin's repair process and provide a barrier against environmental elements. I trust BREVENA Laboratories' medical grade skin care products, with Macro B Complex. This ground-breaking ingredient has transformed my skin, and that of my patients. I frequently recommend BREVENA's Restorative Skin Balm to my patients dealing with chronic dry skin, and Eczema. I have also noticed dramatic improvement using BREVENA's Daily Hydration Moisturizer and Restore & Hydrate Overnight Cream to replenish the moisture in my face and improve the signs of aging," said Dr. Debra Reilly.

About Macro B Complex®:

Macro B Complex is a medically proven botanical element that provides essential moisture and protection to maintain the health of your skin. This technology, once only available for medical use, is now exclusively available in BREVENA Laboratories' line of cosmetic skin care products.
